

United Press International

Can't Believe Spying

Barbara Powers is shown yesterday before telling a press conference in Milledgeville, Ga., the home of her mother, that she cannot believe her husband Francis G. Powers was a spy for the United States. Powers, whose plane was brought down in Soviet territory May 1, is being held in Moscow. The State Department has conceded that Powers, employed by Lockheed Aircraft Corp. as a test pilot, was on a reconnaissance mission.